PREFACE

This report by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) satisfies the requirements of section 221(b) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985. The purpose of the report is to help the Congress adopt authorizing legislation that should be in place before it considers the 13 regular appropriation bills for fiscal year 2001, which begins on October 1, 2000.

Ellen Hays of CBO's Special Studies Division prepared this report under the supervision of Arlene Holen. The author gratefully acknowledges the assistance of analysts in CBO's Budget Analysis Division and the budget offices of various agencies, as well as numerous staff members of Congressional committees.

Chris Spoor edited the report, Leah Mazade proofread it, and L. Rae Roy prepared it for publication. Laurie Brown prepared the electronic versions for CBO's World Wide Web site (www.cbo.gov). Questions about the contents should be directed to Ellen Hays.

OVERVIEW

Each year, the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) is required to report to the Congress on unauthorized appropriations and expiring authorizations. That requirement comes from the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, which amended the Congressional Budget Act of 1974. Section 221(b) of the Deficit Control Act added the following requirement to section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget Act, as amended:

On or before January 15 of each year, the Director [of CBO], after consultation with the appropriate committees of the House and the Senate, shall submit to the Congress a report listing (A) all programs and activities funded during the fiscal year ending September 30 of that calendar year for which authorizations for appropriations have not been enacted for that fiscal year, and (B) all programs and activities for which no authorizations for appropriations have been enacted for the fiscal year beginning October 1 of that calendar year.

According to the conference report on the Deficit Control Act, the purpose of that amendment was "to help Congress use the early months of the year to adopt authorizing legislation that must be in place before the thirteen regular appropriation bills can be considered."

The Role of Authorizations

Authorization laws have two basic purposes. They establish, continue, or modify federal programs, and they are a prerequisite under House and Senate rules (and sometimes under statutes) for the Congress to appropriate budget authority for programs.

Some authorization laws provide spending directly. In fact, well over half of federal spending now goes to programs for which the authorizing legislation provides budget authority. Such spending is referred to as direct, or mandatory, spending. It includes funding for most major entitlement programs. (Some entitlements are funded in annual appropriation acts, but the amounts provided are controlled by the authorization law that established the entitlement.) The authorization laws that provide direct spending are typically permanent, but some major direct-spending programs, such as the Food Stamp program, require periodic renewal.

Another one-third of federal spending is discretionary spending, which is provided in the 13 annual appropriation acts. For discretionary spending, the role of the authorizing committees is to enact legislation that serves as the basis for operating a program and that provides guidance to the Appropriations Committees on the appropriate level of program funding. That guidance is typically expressed as an authorization of appropriations. Such authorizations are provided either for specific dollar amounts (definite authorizations) or for "such sums as are necessary" (indefinite authorizations).

Authorizations may be permanent, or they may cover only specific fiscal years. Authorizations that have a specific duration may be annual (pertaining to one fiscal year) or multiyear (pertaining to two, five, or any specific number of fiscal years). When such an authorization expires, the Congress may choose to extend the life of a program by passing a reauthorization. Unless the underlying law expressly prohibits it, the Congress may also extend a program simply by providing new appropriations for that program. Appropriations made available for a program after its authorization has expired are considered "unauthorized appropriations."

Unauthorized appropriations contained in appropriation bills are subject to points of order during floor consideration in the House and Senate. To avoid a point of order under the House rule, the unauthorized appropriations must either be stricken from the appropriation bill before it is considered on the floor or, if there is a rule governing floor consideration of the bill, be granted a waiver in that rule. For House consideration of a conference agreement on an appropriation bill, the Committee on Rules typically grants waivers for unauthorized appropriations, so points of order against the conference agreement are rare. Points of order are infrequently raised in the Senate, perhaps as a result of the more narrow application of its rule.

The Contents of This Report

The substance of this report consists of two appendixes. Appendix A lists unauthorized appropriations—programs that have received an appropriation for fiscal year 2000 although their authorization has expired. Appendix B lists programs whose authorization will expire at the end of the fiscal year. For all appropriated programs that at one time had an explicit authorization that has expired or will expire, the appendixes show the number and name of the public law containing the last authorization, the last year the authorization was in effect, and the amount authorized in that year. If the authorization was provided for "such sums as are necessary," the report shows the amount authorized as "indefinite."

The information in this report is drawn from CBO's Legislative Classification System, a database reflecting all public laws that contain nonpermanent authorizations of appropriations—up to and including all laws enacted during the first session of the 106th Congress.

Both House and Senate rules require that when the Committees on Appropriations report a bill, they list in their respective committee reports any programs funded in the bill that lack an authorization. The information in those committee reports is more inclusive than the information shown in this report. This report covers programs that at one time had an explicit authorization that either has expired or will expire. This report does not include programs for which the Congress has never provided authorizations of appropriations. For example, some Treasury Department programs have never received explicit authorizations. They receive appropriations nonetheless because the authority to obligate and spend funds is considered "organic"—inherent in the underlying legislation or executive action that originally empowered the Treasury to perform particular functions.

As mentioned above, many laws establish programs with authorizations of discretionary appropriations that do not expire. Both the Appropriations Committee reports and this CBO report exclude programs with that type of authorization because its effect is permanent.

PROGRAMS FUNDED IN FISCAL YEAR 2000 WITH EXPIRED AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS

Appendix A lists programs and activities that have received a fiscal year 2000 appropriation even though their authorization has expired. If the applicable fiscal year 2000 appropriation act (or its legislative history) provides an explicit funding level for the program, that amount is shown under "Unauthorized FY 2000 Appropriations." If no explicit amount is provided (as when a small program is funded at an unidentified level in a large appropriation account), CBO contacts the agency's budget office to determine whether the program is still being funded and, if so, the amount allocated for it. If the allocated amount cannot be determined, the appendix notes that a specific dollar amount of unauthorized 2000 appropriations is not available.

The Congress has appropriated almost $121 billion for fiscal year 2000 for programs and activities with expired authorizations (see Tables 1, 2, and 3). The largest amount for a single program is for veterans' medical care ($19.0 billion), which was authorized through the end of 1998. (Although the authorizing committee asserts that the relevant authorization of appropriations, Public Law 104-262, was intended only as a cap on budget authority for veterans' medical care in 1997 and 1998, it is treated in this report as any other authorization of appropriations.)

Virtually all of the programs authorized in the Improving America's Schools Act of 1994 expired at the end of 1999. That act provided indefinite authorizations for Impact Aid and most other federal programs affecting elementary and secondary education. The 106th Congress did not reauthorize the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1994 during its first session; $14.6 billion is provided for that act's programs in 2000. The General Education Provisions Act provides for an automatic one-year extension of all Department of Education programs, as noted in the appendixes. However, the 2000 appropriations are still considered (for the purposes of this report) to be unauthorized.

Likewise, much of the appropriation provided for the Department of Justice in 2000 ($14.2 billion) is included as unauthorized despite a general provision in the applicable appropriation act that extends the Department of Justice Appropriation Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1980 for the current fiscal year. Additional funding is provided for many Department of Justice programs that are separately authorized, such as those in the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 and the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996.

The $8.7 billion provided for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is unauthorized; it was last authorized for 1993 by P.L. 102-588. Funding for many foreign aid programs was last authorized for 1987 by the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985; their funding totals just over $8.2 billion in 2000. Many housing and community development programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development were reauthorized in P.L. 105-276, but those that were not were last authorized for 1994; they are funded at just over $7.4 billion in 2000.

Other programs funded in 2000 despite expired authorizations include many programs of the National Institutes of Health (last authorized for 1996) and programs funded through the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration Reorganization Act of 1992, last authorized for 1994. Finally, Department of Energy programs that were last authorized for 1984 will receive $4.4 billion in 2000.

AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS EXPIRING ON OR BEFORE SEPTEMBER 30, 2000

Appendix B lists programs and activities whose authorizations will expire on or before September 30, 2000. Unlike Appendix A, the list indicates (by public law) the amounts authorized to be appropriated in 2000 for expiring programs and activities rather than the amounts actually appropriated in 2000.

Just over $293 billion worth of authorizations—under the jurisdiction of 13 House and 13 Senate committees—will expire at the end of this fiscal year (see Tables 4, 5, and 6). Typically, authorizing committees attempt to reauthorize programs before they are set to expire.

Some programs were reauthorized during the first session of the 106th Congress—but only through the end of 2000. The largest such reauthorization is the annual portion of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000, which includes the Maritime Administration and atomic energy defense activities. Another annual authorization set to expire is the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000. Various programs with authorizations longer than one year are also set to expire at the end of 2000, including roughly $5 billion worth of programs authorized in the 1994 Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act and all funding for the National Science Foundation last authorized in its 1998 reauthorization (P.L. 105-207).
